

Key Threads

Intent:

At Birchfield Primary School we believe that writing is a key skill for life and that is why it features across all the subjects taught across our school. Our aim is to provide children with key transferrable writing skills that will build year on year, that can be used throughout each phase of their education and prepare them for secondary school. We aim to provide the children with varied purposes for writing and believe that this not only produces higher quality writing but allows our learners to apply their skills to a range of different contexts. Writing across all subject areas will equip our children with a more in-depth approach to analysing, planning and innovating their writing. Oracy is prioritised in our writing curriculum to build vocabulary for all learners and increase understanding of trickier texts used across our curriculum. Discussion, questioning and learning texts all increase understanding and prepare our children with the tools they need to be successful in their writing. Our aim is for all learners to thrive and reach their full potential in writing and we are committed to providing the scaffolds and challenge needed in order for our children to achieve this.

Implementation:

Children receive a daily writing lesson and are exposed to age-related expectations for writing within a range of texts. We passionately believe that reading and writing are inextricably linked therefore studying the text in both reading and writing sessions encourages children to make links and become empathetic and ambitious writers. All classes use the same structure to plan and teach writing units following a 2/3-week cycle, this helps with consistency and pupils know what to expect year on year. The writing process encourages and advocates the use of oracy – this ensures that through discussion, questioning, imitating and innovating children learn the intricate craft of writing. A high standard of joined, cursive handwriting is modelled across school and children are encouraged to imitate this. Teachers demonstrate high quality modelling within each writing lesson and encourage children to include key vocabulary (linked to their Enquiry), structure their work appropriately into coherent paragraphs and use the grammatical skills and punctuation taught at their year group level. The use of a WAGOLL is used as an example of how to be successful at the start of each unit of work. Children are encouraged to use this as a structure but also innovate their writing to make it their own. They do this using a boxing-up sheet (planning proforma) used within each unit. Our aim is to provide engaging writing hooks that are linked to each Enquiry to give children an audience and purpose for writing. Children are expected to transfer their key topic knowledge and vocabulary into their writing and vice versa to transfer their spelling, grammar and punctuation knowledge into their topic work. We expect the high standards in writing lessons to be evident across the curriculum. As a school, we ensure that genres of writing studied run alongside the learning taking place in Reading lessons so that children are fully immersed in the text type. Birchfield Primary School ensures that children are aware of their strengths and areas for development in writing so that learners can take ownership of their progress. Teachers provide feedback to ensure that children know exactly what they need to do next to make progress in their writing and children are encouraged to up-level their work. We ensure that all learners are given scaffolds and challenges for them to succeed. Support in class may include a focus group, scaffolds created by the teacher, and word banks/sentence openers.

Impact:

Assessment in writing is ongoing as teachers carry out in-depth assessment of children's writing at the end of each unit and highlight the age-related outcomes that have been achieved. Progress across classes is closely monitored by the subject leader and senior leadership team. Monitoring includes regular book looks, lesson observations, gathering evidence of good practice, looking at data on the internal tracker and regular learning walks. Findings from the monitoring are used to inform next steps for the children and the implementation of writing across the school as a whole. Children at Birchfield achieve well and make good progress in writing. They write well for a range of purposes and audience whilst being reflective and learn how to improve their own work.
